The House committee on the Ohio ballot box forgery resumed its session this morning. Senator Stockbridge of Michigan and Senator McPherson of New Jersey declared that their signatures to the forged papers were forgeries. Several minor witnesses testified. John L. Pfan of Cincinnati said that Wood told him that the forged papers were made for the purpose of catching Foraker. The plan was to get Foraker to publish it and then crush him with the proofs of its forgery.

Witness said he believed Wood failed to get an original paper from John R. McLean of the Enquirer, and that he drew up a forged document from memory.

Lewis N. Hodden was recalled. He said there were men at the table who knew he had paid money to Wood, and Governor Foraker knew of it. He did not testify to this at his former examination because he was not asked.

Eyraud first planted a strong nail in the wall of an alcove, which he carefully screened by means of a portiere, and, after bending the nail, he hung the pulley on it, making a running noose with the clothesline. His next move was to suspend the second pulley from the ceiling in the center of the

THE storm has cleared up, the weather has become settled, and the snow has disappeared, or nearly so. Stockmen begin to take a more cheerful view of the situation, and now think the losses will not be over 25 or 30 per cent. It is not to be wendered at, however, that they were almost panicstricken two weeks ago, With two and a half feet of snow on the ranges and nothing to feed their stock on the outlook was decidedly gloomy. After a man has isolated himself from all society for a term of years and lived on bacon grease and hardtack in an honest endeavor to accumulate property and cattle hardly at a living price, it would discourage a saint to see the snow pile up to such a depth that he was obliged to stand helplessly by and see his stock all starve to death. But not so with the cattlemen of Nevada, for they accepted the situation cheerfully, and never ceased trying to save their cattle; and, with the assistance of a kind Providence, they have succeeded in coming out of the battle with the elements in much better shape than it was thought possible.

MARION HARLAND, the friend and helper of women everywhere, has taken up the work of restoring the ruined monument marking the burial place of Mary, the mother of Washington. She says trulyin her appeal to the mothers and daughters of America to erect a fitting monument to her who gave Our Country a Father-that "the sun shines upon no sadder ruin in the length and breadth of our land than this unfinished structure."

The publishers of the Home-Maker, of which Marion Harland is the editor, offer as their contribution to the good cause seventyfive cents out of every annual subscription of two dollars to the magazine sent in during the next six months. Every such subscription must be accompanied by the words, "For Mary Washington Monument." The offer is generous, and should meet with an enthusiastic response.

THERE are two firms in Reno that use about fifty tons of Eastern hams and bacon per annum, and when we take into consideration what is consumed in Carson, Virginia, Gold Hill, Dayton and other places throughout the State, the money that is spent for Eastern meats am unts to $100,000 or more yearly. Why cannot this money be kept at home? Is there any reason why the farmers of Nevada cannot raise their own meats and supply the State? There is money enough spent for foreign meats, butter, eggs, cheese and fowls to support quite a respectable colony if steps were taken to raise those necessary articles of food within ourselves. Let the farmers think over the proposition and see if they cannot make more money by producing what we require than by sending abroad for it.

THE Lyon county Times contains the following sensible editorial: "One of our exchanges remarks that Mr. Newlands will have to find some other means of riding into the Senatorial seat than on the irrigation scheme, because we have all the water we will need in the State this year. Just such ideas as these have kept Nevada back for years. When we have water everybody thinks it will last for a lifetime and no means are provided for its storage. This is all wrong. We have had lessons enough, it would seem, to teach us that in the time of abundance it is well to prepare for a famine About Mr. Newland's political aspirations we are not posted, but the water storage question should be as interesting as ever. Do not lose sight of the fact because we have an abundance for the present

A DREADED LOCALITY.

Where Fifteen Train Men Have

The reporter of the Sagramento Bee, who was sent "on the hill" during the blockade, among other things wrote a eadable story about the superstition the railroad men have in regard to the way station known as Tamarack' which they believe is infessed with ghosts. No less than fifteen training have been killed at that point through collisions or other mishaps, until it has become a dreaded place, and some of the railroaders stoutly assert that they have seen ghos ly forms about the unlucky place a number of time. Tie

"Now, when trains approach the spot, in the dismal shadows of the timbers seem to luck the ghostly forms of mared and crippled men, spectral bodies clad in robes of white, wandering stuly return to haunt the scene of their dismemberment from the feese of their dismemberment from the feese of their dismemberment from the flesh. Many sturdy men refuse to be convinced that it is farcy that outlines the dreaded forms. Men who are not superstitious in anything else quail before the very thought of Tamerack. Everything about the spot conspires to impart a feeling of terror in the mind, of those beset with superstitious fears. Even by day the shed is dark nearly throughout its stretch of 8 mile; the studding has become black and grimy from the smoky belching of the locomotives, so that even the occasional ray of sunlight that strays through a crack in the inside of the shed murks the gloomy air." reporter savs:

A Haunted House.

This body of ours has been likened to a tenement. It often has a haunted apartment-the stomach. Scared by the eldrich sprite, dyspepsia, digestion flies and refuses to return. What can break the spell, what can raise the ban laid upon the unhappy organs? We answer unhesitatingly, Hostetter's answer unhesitatingly, Hostetter's Stopach Bitters, and we are warranted in the response by the recorded testimony of myriads, covering a period of over a third of a century. A course of the Bitters, begun in any stage of the affliction, and persistently followed will terminate in cure positive, n r partial. The Bitters restores tone to the epigastric nerve, renews and purifies the juices exuding from the cellular tissues that act upon the food digestively, expells bile from the stomach and the blood, and promotes a regular habit of body. Malaria, kidney complaint, nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia give way to this medicine.

"Polly want a telephone, rang and receiving the answering ring shouted "Send down Then flying back to her perch lips trembled with feeling. she was quietly sitting there when the Poll had often watched her master talk through the telephone to the station-master at Jerome, a small town not many miles distant. In about half an hour the passenger train was due. When it was nearly time for the train to come the stationmaster thought that he heard the noise of a train in each direction, but concluding that he was mistaken he did not trouble himself to look out. In a few minutes the passenger train passed up, but it did not stop, and in another mo ment a fearful crash was heard, a piercing shrick rang out upon the night air and then piteous groans were heard. Snatching up a lantern the station-mas-ter hurried out. A fearful scene was before him. The freight train attached to the engine 113 had come into collision with the passenger train.

Fifteen passengers and both engineers were killed and five passengers were injured seriously. In a short time the whole town was astir. The injured were cared for and an engine arrived and pushed the broken cars on a side-track. Much excitement prevailed throughout the town. The people wondered who it was who had telephoned to the station-master at Jerome. They did not solve the mystery for many a long day and both station-masters very nearly lost their situations, but as nothing could be proved against them they were allowed to remain. One evening in June as the station-master at B—sat dozing in his chair he was aroused by hearing the telephone ring. Looking up he saw Poll sitting on the shelf above the telephone and heard her call out in her shrill voice:

At last the mystery had been solved.

Utilizing Wasted Gases. Great Britain. Sir Lowthian Bell says, saves 4,000,000 tons of coal a year by utilizing the gases which once escaped from furnaces. As the pig-iron made in this country for 1889 will be within 10 per cent. as much as that made in Great Britain, the saving here must be 3,600,000 tons, or 10 per cent, of the anthracite output. Yet this is a mere trifle to the saving which will be made when the slag is used as a fertilizer, the waste products of cooking saved, and all the combustion of coal carried on so as to utilize waste products of our waste-ful way of using coal to make heat and

OUR COLUMN

We Are Giving Away

This book contains 480 pages; is eight and one-half inches long, six inches wide and two inches thick. It is printed on extra heavy pa per and is handsomely bound, with embossed cover and gilt-lettered back.

It is different from all other works ever published. First — It teaches those who have it how to tell what the matter is when a person gets sick.

All similar books tell what to do if you know what the disease is. This book tells you HOW TO DETECT THE DISEASE, and then what to do for it.

No other Book Published does this.

Second—When a person is really attacked by a dangerous disease, it enables you to know the fact, and in such cases its advice is: "Send for a competent physician at once." But in all ordinary cases, such as can be easily cured, it gives full directions for treatment.

Third-It is not confined to the practice used by any one class of physicians; but it gives, separately, and for each disease, the methods used by each of the different schools of medicine, and in ALL CASES the PRE-SCRIPTIONS ARE MADE by the MOST EMINENT MEN id their respective modes of practice. This makes the work specially suited to the needs of every family, no matter what medical school they prefer. No other Book Published Does this.

There are three chapters in the "Family Physician" which are worthy of special mention, namely, those on "Dise-ses of Women," "I ease of Infants" and "Care of the sick."

The first of these is a model of its kind. It is chaste in Januage, contains no disgusting pictures for children to happen on and be overcurious about, and taken altogether is the most practical, sen ible and straight-forward treatise upon this delicate subject that has ever been printed.

this delicate subject that has ever been printed.

This chapter alone is worth many times the cost of the book to every mother, even if it had to be purchased at its regular price.

The other chapters referred to are equally well written and valuable, see "Our Plan" on 4th page.

A CASE IN POINT.

In our forefathers' days, pimples were attributed to diseased blood. But modern medicine has demonstrated that rich food does not create eruptions by fouling the blood, but retards digestion, which makes the stomach torpld, and the circulation sluggish, and in turn causes an enfeebled action of the pores which congest or become pimply. The modern theory therefore is not to treat the blood, but the stomach and liver, and it is under this new idea, that Joy's Vege-table Sarsaparilla was conceived. It is wip-ing the old "blood disease" idea out of exnce. A case in point: "I have had for years spells of indigestion and dyspepsia and tried nearly everything. Finally I took one of the leading sarsaparillas. It caused pimples to break out on my face, which I was told was caused by the potash. Hearing that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla did not con tain mineral, I sent for it. The pimples disappeared and I have had no return of the old spells. It is a cure for indigestion and dyspepsia and the attendant face eruptions." MRS. C. D. STUART, 1221 Mission street, S. F.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Encouraging Letters Received From All Directions.

An Interesting Meeting Held Baturday-The Board Attracting Attention Throughout the Entire State.

The State Board of Trade held an interesting meeting last Saturday, and is getting down to work in good shape. Telegrams were forwarded to Senator Stewart and Francis G. Newlands, requesting them to see that the Senate Committee on Irrigation did justice to Nevada in their report. The telegrams were sent at the instance of Richard J. Hinton, Irrigation Engineer, and Secretary of the committee, who writes that he did not think a proper showing had been made for Nevada. His letter was delayed by the storms, so that nothing could be done here in time.

Members of the press of the State were elected honorary members of the Board, and the Secretary was instructed to return the $5 dues to all who had paid and inform them of the action taken.

The Secretary was instructed to re quest the press of the State to publish the fact that the Board would be thankful for any specimens of ore or samples of agricultural products sent them to be placed on exhibition.

The Manager submitted a report to the effect that he and Mr. Newlands went to New York and saw D. O. Mills, John W. Mackay, Charles Moran, H. M. Yerington and C. P. Huntington

Mr. Mills said that the Virginia & Truckee road had subscribed $1,000 per annum, but that the Carson & Colorado was not in a position at present to do anything as a direct subscription. Both he and Mr. Yerington expressed an energetic interest in the purposes of the Board and a willing-ness to do anything in their power

Mr. Moran said that his investmen in the N.-C.-O. was entirely unpro ductive up to this time, with slight prospects ahead, and that it had not a dollar to spare for any purpose.

Mr. Mackay spoke encouragingly and said he would do his share. He expects to be out here inside of a couple of weeks, and would answer then what amount he will subscribe.

A committee of three was appointed to draft and forward to our Senators and Representative a series of resolu-tions favoring the giving to every pro-ducer of silver bullion in the United States the right of free coinage; the issue to each depositor of silver bullion for coinage certificates in lieu of coin when such depositor so elects; denouncing the Windom bill as a direct blow to the silver mining interests of the West; calling attention to the fact that, as long as a tariff for protection to the industries of the United States is levied upon foreign importations, the Western States demand as their right the protection awarded to the Eastern States, and call for the tax again being placed upon all the lead bullion shipped into the United States from Mexico, stating as a fact which the present generation had lost sight of, that Nevada, during and immediately after the late war, contributed more to the wealth of the nation at that critical period than any other State in the Union, and requesting the assistance and encouragement which it deserves in the reclamation of its arid lands and development of the enormous mineral resources still unexplored through the unjust demonunexplored through the unjust demon-etization of silver.

The Secretary was instructed to re-quest the different paper publications in California east of the Sierras to ex-tend a cordial invitation to their peo-ple to join with Nevada in making the movement a success. What is to our interest is certainly to the interest of the counties situated east of the mountains, and it is hoped the people will embrace the opportunity of building up those sections.

up those sections.

The Secretary reported that $210 had been collected in $5 pieces and that Mr. Newlands had paid into the fund $500, making the total collection up to Saturday $710.

Communications were read from different gentlemen throughout the State, showing that a lively interest is being taken in the movement.

interests, and in this channel great strides can be made, in my judgment,
by the introduction of improved meth-

J. L. Campbell of Dayton says:
"Being an old resident I feel a personal interest in Nevada and an willing to contribute towards the developing to contribute towards the development of its resources."

John H. Coleman, manager of the Virginia Chronicle, says he will publish matter for the Board of Trade.

There are a raft of other letters from other parties, but it takes too much space to publish them.

The following are the collections up to Sunday night of $5 pieces and who paid them: M. D. Foley, R. L. Fulton, F. G. Newlands, W. E. Sharon, M. Cohn, George Russell, W. O. H. Martin, C. C. LIVESTOCK NOTES.

Not Quite so Bad as Represented-A Good Show for Cattle that

Senator M. D. Foley was interviewed by a Chronicle reporter the other days. in San Francisco relative to the live stock outlook in this State. Mr. Foley paints an exceedingly gloomy picture, and the statement he made is hardly warranted by the facts. The loss will be heavy, but the spring round-up will show a great many cattle. The weather since the backbone of the storm was broken has been very favor-able indeed. The snow went off rap-idly, and it cleared up warm, which gave the starving brutes a chance to get out in the brush and pick up such forage as had started up. It looked two weeks ago as if every hoof not provided with hay would surely die, but the "Chenook" did good work in clearing the ground of soon and an clearing the ground of snow, and, as the ground was not frozen where the snow fell, the grass started up. Now that the blanket has been removed, there is a good show for most of the

THE NEWSPAPER MEN.

What They are Doing for the Board of Trade.

The newspaper men of Nevada have nearly all paid the assessment to the Board of Trade, but by the action taken at Saturday's meeting they were all made honorary charter members, consequently the money had to be refunded. If every interest throughout the State would put up in proportion to the newspaper men the Board would have a very handsome working fund, but it is not to be expected that non-progressive rubber-stamp men-will put up for any purpose whatever. The press of Nevada are doing more and will continue to do more to assist the Board than all other classes of citizens combined.

NEVADA MINERALS.

Some Practical Suggestions From a Nye County Citizen. CLOVERDALE, Feb. 1, 1890.

EDITOR GAZETTE: With your permission I will submit through your paper to the Nevada State Board of Trade my views as to what should be done. I will be brief, merely mentioning the subject, but should like, if I had the space, to give my reasons in detail. We are a mining community. What mirerals do we mine for? Gold. silver and lead, but a small per cent. of the minerals that are used. There are 24 minerals more valuable than gold. Have no idea how many there are more valuable than silver, to say nothing about the minerals of less value, such as tin, antimony, zinc and hundreds of others. There is a larger population supported by mining for mica than we have. What I suggest is, provided capital could be obtained, is for the Board to establish a place where prospectors could have an analytical test made of ore, the value and its use returned Prospectors only look for gold and silver. They find minerals everywhere, and throw them away, not knowin what they are. No prospector can afford to have a chemical analysis made of his ore, as it would probably cost him $25 or $30, and would be but one test at that. Of course, there would be a good many tests that would amount to nothing, but if we found any of the hundreds of minerals in paying quantities we would be repaid. When it is known that prospectors could get their ores tested the hills would be full of men. I know of lots of minerals that are heavier than lead.

and know what they are worth in gold and silver, that is all. I have followed assaying for a living just as others are Save gold and silver throw away what is probably worth more. Geol-ogists may say that if the hundreds of minerals found elsewhere can't live in this formation. Remember that their theories have proved follies; for an example, Colorado; the theory was that sulphuret or carbonate could not exist near stone coal. You can throw a rock from the most famous mines in America on inexhaustable bodies of coal. I know of so many minerals some large ledges, don't know what they were, have no way of testing them; couldn't if I had.

I am but one of the thousands that have been scaling mountains for 30 years, looking up minerals and wondering what they were, then throwing them away.

It may be said "we can't compete with other countries." When we commenced producing borax it was worth 35 and 40 cents a pound; now it is worth 8 cents, still we produce thousands of tons and it is the best paying business we have. I doubt if ther hasn't been more money thrown away in dumps than has been paid in divi-Respectfully yours, T. J. Bell.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

—In a revival meeting at Walla Walla, Ore., a man confessed that he was a murderer and asked forgiveness. He refused to reveal the circumstances.

-An advertisement in the Media (Pa.) Record announces the location of a piece of property up for sale as one and one-quarter inches from the town of Wawa.

-"I always return from Europe more in love with my own country than ever," says Senator Washburn, of Minnesota. "Europe is nothing but an armed camp."

-Just what a full-grown black bear can do in the way of hugging was demonstrated in Maine a week or two ago, when bruin seized a barrel of beef, gave it a squeeze and crushed it in pieces. It was estimated to be a squeeze of two-

-Unacquainted with the game birds of this country, a newly-arrived German, living near Scranton, shot a barnyard turkey under the impression that it was a wild fowl. He took it home and had it cooked, and was about to sit down at the dinner-table to eat it when he was arrested for killing his neighbor's poultry.

-A Saco (Me.) blacksmith is the latest convert to the belief that early rising is not always in practice what it is in theory. He got up dark and early the other morning, and had his fire blazing by four o'clock. The next thing he knew the Saco fire department had the hose turned on his blaze, and the neighbors were sreaming "fire" at the top of their voices.

-A family of Burnside, Ill., had been annoyed for many weeks by strange noises, and suspected that some noxious animal was in the house. The other night they discovered the intruder in the shape of a huge rattlesnake, which had been aroused to fury by a cat. There was intense excitement, especially among the ladies of the house-hold, until the reptile was dispatched.

-There are various degrees of folly exhibited by individuals in the daily routine of life; perhaps no greater one could be adduced than that of searching for an escape of gas with a naked light, says the London Lancet. A man of mature age has recently had occasion to be impressed with the negligence he displayed in his endeavor to find the origin of an escape of gas in his house. Besides being badly burnt on the face, head and arms, he became aware at the same time of considerable damage done to his household property. -One of the Philadelphia institutes had a pleasant experience the other day. Some years ago the managers admitted a pupil to its school who was unable at the time to pay the regular fees. It was understood that he should pay at some future time, but no account was opened with him, and the incident had almost been forgotten, when the pupil returned to pay the money—fifty dollars. The instruction he had received enabled him to get employment, and when he had saved enough of his earnings to meet his obligations he came up manfully and paid the cost of his tuition. -Among the curiosities to be found in the Minnesota State Law Library are two volumes of the colonial laws of Massachusetts, 1760 to 1772. They are, of course, reprints, but "ye olden style" has been faithfully reproduced. The code of laws in vogue in those provincial days was truly very crude. It was then that the whipping-post was resorted to as a mode of punishment, but it is stipulated that "no man shall be beaten with above forty stripes, nor shall any true gentleman, nor any man equal to a gentleman, be punished by whipping unless his crime be very shameful and his course of life vicious and profligate." Again the code says: "If any man shall Blaspheme the name of god, the father, Sonne or Holy ghost, with direct, expresse, presumptuous or high handed blasphemie, or shall curse food in the like manner, he shall be put to death.'

ORIENTAL JUSTICE.

How an Eastern Judge Decided a Com-plicated Case.

Dr Henry M. Scudder reports the decision of a case in an Eastern court in which the nice discrimination of the ench was conspicuous.

Four men, partners in business, bought some cotton bales. That the rats might not destroy the cotton they purchased a cat. They agreed that each of the four should own a particular leg of the cat, and each adorned with beads and other ornaments the leg thus apportioned to

The cat by an accident injured one of its legs. The owner of that member wound about it a rag soaked in oil. The cat going too hear the fire set the rag on fire, and being in great pain rushed in among the cotton bales, where she was accustomed to hunt rats. The cotton thereby took fire and was burned up. It

The three other partners brought an action to recover the value of the cotton against the fourth partner, who owned that particular leg of the cat. The judge examined the case and decided thus:

"The leg that had the oil rag on it vas hurt; the cat could not use that leg; in fact, it held up that leg and ran with the other three legs. The three unhurt legs, therefore, carried the fire to the cotton, and are alone culpable. The injured leg is not to be blamed. The three partners who owned the three legs with which the cat ran to the cotton will pay the whole value of the bales to the partner who was the proprietor of the in-

THE INSTITUTE PASTEUR.

But One Per Cent. of Its Patients Have Succumbed to Hydrophobia. Many years of labor proved to Pasteur that by inoculation he could give the disease, or cure it, in dog; but it was not until July, 1885, that the experiment was tried on a human being. The first patient, a small lad, having been severely been severely as the severely small seasons and the severely ly bitten in some dozen places on the hands, arms and legs, his mother, a simhands, arms and legs, his mother, a simple peasant, brought him from Alsace and asked M. Pasteur to do the same to her son she heard he "did to dogs to prevent their getting hydrophobia." Pasteur hesitated; but having procured medical advice, all of which concurred as to the impossibility of the child's recovery, he (not being himself a doctor) let his surgeons incoulate the boy, which operation was repeated fourteen times on two occasions twice in twenty-four hours to accomplish the task as quickly as possible. The child has not only "Not hif I knows meself, Tommy," re-though it is now over four years since he was treated, but is fast growing to manhood. During the four years that have elapsed since M. Pasteur inoculated his first patient no fewer than from 15 to 20 per cent. invariably succumbed. Pasteur has now made the interesting discovery that the nearer the part bitten is to the brain the shorter is the period of incubation and the more virulent the attack of the disease produced. While the ordinary mortality in such cases is eighty per cent.,

M. Pasteur by his treatment has reduced it to four per cent. Surely these facts speak for themselves. I will now operandi of the inoculation itself as I saw it. The large outer hall of the institution by eleven o'clock contained eighty-nine persons, composed of all classes, all nationalities and all ages,

who had come to be inoculated (free of charge), having previously had the misfortune to have been bitten by some rabid animal. On the right hand of the hall is a regular office, in which every case, with all particulars, is most carefully registered. After the patient has furnished every possible particular he crosses the passage to a small room on the left, where the inoculation is performed. There sits the operator, who is assisted by a doctor, a nurse and a clerk, furnished with full particulars and the number of each ease. The procsmall hypodermic syringe filled with the preparation is injected under the skin,

bigger than a wool needle; the operation is as trifling as it is painless, and occupies about five seconds. 'It is repeated on fourteen successive days, the

FEEDING OYSTERS.

How Lean Bivalves Are Fattened by Incl.

The big oyster on the top of the barrel opened its jaws wearily and closed

them with a snap, as if in response to a

scarcely audible gurgle from the bottom

"He's dry and hungry, too, I guess,"

about time to give him and the other fellows some dinner," and he poured over the oysters a bucketful of salt and

"Do you call that dinner?" asked the

"More after the style of a lunch," was the reply. "You see, sir, it isn't possible, for some unknown reason, to feed

oysters in Washington as they do in the North. Up there a man will buy a barrel of lean oysters, without any flesh at all on their bones, as you might say,

and feed them three square meals a day

of corn meal and salt water, poured

over them, and at the end of a month

they will be as fat as butter. But ovsters won't take hearty grub like that down here, and two weeks is as long as they can be kept alive and in good condition on salt and water plain. It's a funny thing that if one hundred bushels

of real salt oysters are put on top of one hundred bushels of fresh oysters for four or five days, so that the drainage

from the salt oysters will drip down

over the fresh ones, at the end of that time the fresh oysters-supposing them

thin at the beginning-will be as plump

as possible and properly salt, while the salt oysters remain pretty much as be-

been thrown over the whole stack daily.

But, on the other hand, if the fresh oysters are put on top of the salt ones, every thing else being as in the other case, both the salt oysters and the fresh oysters will lose and become thin.

When you see oysters on top of a pile opening their mouths, it is because they off them. Oysters, by the way, will keep longer and better in a dry cellar than in a wet or damp one; they want an equable temperature neither too

high nor too low; an oyster that freezes

is a dead oyster. Listen to those oysters in the barrel now—you can hear their jaws go as they eat."—Washington

MONEY IN CHINA. A Country Where the Mexican Dollar Is

Not Below Par. The chief coin in circulation along the coast of China is the Mexican dollar and the copper cash. It takes from 1,000 to 1,500 cash to make a dollar, and some of the coins in use are so poor that you can break them in two between your thumb and finger. They are of the size of an old red cent, and have a square hole in the center, in order that they may be strung on a string. They are made in different parts of China, and the Viceroy of Canton is now building a mint with modern American machinery, which will turn them out by the million. In the interior of China these cash and silver and gold in the lump form the money. The standard of weight for both is the tael, which weighs about an ounce, and the money is cast in the shape of a lady's shoe. Ten taels of silver make a lump of about the size of a Chinese lady's foot, and if you want to pay out less than this amount you take your knife or a chisel and pound off as much as you want. It is the rudest way of doing business, but the Chinese are very suspicious of coins, and they like the pure metal. Gold bricks about an inch long and half an inch wide and of the same thickness are also used, but you have to watch these, as you do every thing else in the shape of money in China. In South China you will find a chop dollar, out of which little chips of silver have been taken, or in which holes have been bored and these holes filled with lead. You will find coins under weight and chunks of metal which are counterfeit, and the result is that every Chinese business-house has to keep one man whose business is to detect counterfeit coin. This man is called the schroff, and all the money of the establishment passes through his hands. He gives a big bond, and he is responsible for all the money he takes in. If he makes a mistake it is his loss, not that of the firm. You will find these schroffs con-nected with our Legation abroad, and they may be called the cashiers of the East. They are always Chinamen, and the foreign banks in Asia have all their figuring and their money calculations made by Chinamen. The Chinaman does this with his little box of buttons strung on wires; he never makes a mistake, and he is the great arithmetician of the world .- F. G. Carpenter, in National Tribune. WOMAN'S FASCINATION.

ne of the Reasons That Attract the Stronger Sex to the Gentler. The power of fascination inherent in women may, moreover, be divided into two kinds. All of us have seen the old lady, generally white-haired, with kindly, pleasant features, on which time has set no unfriendly mark, who still retains all her attractiveness. Note how the boys and girls adore her; they will go to her and confide their sorrows, their hopes, their ambitions, even when they would not breathe a word to their mothers. The kindly, loving interest evinced in a lad's affairs by such a one has time and again first implanted the impulses in his heart which eventually led him on to an honorable career.

is done by such, and the good seed sown which will ripen in after time into a rich and abundant crop. On the other hand, we have most of us seen, perhaps in real life, certainly on the stage, the fascinating adventuress who, by her en-thralling beaute de diable, enslaves men's souls and leads them (on the stage) to dare all for her sake. Such is directly opposed to the sweet old lady in her old-fashioned chair, and these two form the opposite poles between which the women who fascinate vary.

Types differ, and any one you may select has some position between these two opposites. Take, for instance, a pretty and may be witty woman who, hardly of her own free will, makes every man fall in love with her to a greater or less degree. She may be innocent of all evil intention, but her position on the scale is not vastly removed from that of the melo-dramatic sorceress. Or, again, take the instance of the pretty young matron who, while devoted to home, husband and children, yet has several intimate friends of the male persuasion. But her influence is all for good. Her fascination is exerted in a worthy cause, and she has found out a great truth-that there is no friendship so lasting, so true and so pleasant as one between persons of opposite sexes, where a true feeling of bonne camaraderie exists and there is no pretense of love-making. Such a woman, if she lives long enough, bids fair to develop into a snowy-haired old lady on whose friendship the children will rely.— Brooklyn Eagle.

stare at us word went round the ship that some one was doomed. We had with us two English cockneys who were The Poetry of Eating. That marvelous story-writer Guy de Maupassant says: "A man is a gourmet question turned upon who would fall a as he is a poet, or an artist, or simply in' chance to make or lose ten pun's if learned. Taste is a delicate organ, perfectible and worthy of respect, like the eye and the ear. To be wanting in the sense of taste is to be deprived of an ex-quisite faculty, of the faculty of discern-ing the quality of aliments, just as one may be deprived of the faculty of discerning the qualities of a book or of a work of art; it is to be deprived of an essential sense, of a part of human su-periority; it is to belong to one of the innumerable classes of cripples, infirm on. Daylight came again and he was still there. Some of the passengers pooh-hooed, but I think all were somewhat affected by the monster's persistency. At about ten o'clock we sighted a waterlogged vessel and ran close to her. All people and fools of which our race is composed; it is, in a word, to have a stupid mouth, just as we may have a stupid mind. A man who does not distinguish between a langouste and a lobster, be-tween a herring (that admirable fish that carries with it all the savors and nas of the sea) and a mackerel or a whiting, is comparable only to a man who could confound Balzac with Eugene Sue and a symphony by Beethoven with a military march composed by some regimental band-master." — Harper's
